ABOUT ME

With over 14 years of dedicated expertise as a Java backend developer, I specialize in Adobe Experience Manager (AEM), where I have honed my skills in designing and implementing robust backend solutions specifically tailored for AEM platforms. My proficiency lies in crafting custom components, optimizing system performance, and seamlessly integrating third-party systems to create scalable digital experiences. Driven by a passion for leveraging technology to surpass client expectations, I thrive in environments that foster collaboration and innovation. I am eager to bring my extensive skill set to your team, contributing to the success of delivering cutting-edge digital solutions through AEM.
